

Still Here.

Native Americans are often depicted in a historical context; in vintage photos as a people of the past. This Native American Heritage Month, remember that the Indigenous Peoples of North America still live and work in and around Kent County as a people of the present—tribal citizens young and old; artists and musicians, factory and office workers, business owners, students, public servants, patrons, educators, volunteers, . . .

colleagues, neighbors, and friends

Pictured: Native American Citizens of Kent County, MI.

November is Native American Heritage Month

GVSU Native American Heritage Month Lecture Series:
<http://gvsu.edu/oma/native-american-heritage-month-139.htm>

Grand Rapids Public Museum Native American Culture Day:
<http://www.grmuseum.org/NACD>

This poster is brought to you by the Kent County Cultural Insight Council
<http://www.accesskent.com/diversity>

"Kent County...Where Diversity & Inclusion Matter"

